Gov't energy privatization plans at risk, say analysts

By Abigail L. Ho

THE OPERATOR OF THE new Philippine wholesale electricity spot market yesterday said it was investigating a government agency for possible price manipulation that resulted in sudden spikes in the electric bills of factories and households in Luzon.

Philippine Electricity Market Corp. (PEMC) said its probe was focused on Power Sector Assets Liquidation and Management Corp. (PSALM), the government agency in charge of selling the state's power plants and the national electricity grid.

"There is suspicion of manipulation in prices," PEMC president Laine Halapien said at a news conference.

Analysts said the probe could further frustrate energy privatization plans.

"These investors will be turned off by this," said Raulo del Castillo, managing director of local investment firm First Grade Holdings. "They will be thinking twice about investing in the Philippines."

PEMC said the average price of power in the spot market's third month of operation (Aug. 26-Sept. 25) surged to P4.83 per kilowatt hour (KWH). This was almost 70 percent higher than the P2.79 per KWH in the market's first month of operation.

PSALM denied the allegation, which opposed to a retake. Labor Secretary Ar-

"We know litigation takes a long time," Aring told reporters. "The CA decision will likely pave the way for motions for reconsideration that will go to the Supreme Court. And that kind of litigation will take years."

President Macapagal-Arroyo had assigned Aring, a former associate justice of the appellate court, to draft the executive order. He submitted the draft on Tuesday, but Executive Secretary Eduardo Ermita said on Wednesday that it had been sent back to him for "review and reality."

Aring expressed surprise that Macapagal had made an announcement about retaking for the appellate court to decide on the petition when Ms. Arroyo herself had sufficient power to "short-cut" the process and order a retake.

"I cannot understand why some officials would say they're deferring the matter to the CA. This is agonizing for those who rely on the integrity of the professional licensure exams. I hope this ends soon," he said.

Aring also said shortening the process would ease the suffering of the board members who had to wait to take their professional exam, and other stakeholders such as doctors, hospitals, review centers and nursing schools.

AFP refuses to blame RSBS' former execs for funds' loss

By Dana Z. Padillaga

THE MILITARY YESTERDAY REFUSED to blame its retired officers for the financial mess at the Retirement and Separation Benefits System (RSBS), its pension fund.

Major Gen. Romeo Tolentino acknowledged "shortcomings" in the management of the officers' contributions to the RSBS, but did not name the former officials responsible for the fund's investments and allegedly embezzled funds.

"There will be a massive information drive to explore to the soldiers what really happened at the RSBS. We'll explore it to them," said Tolentino, the retired Forces deputy chief of staff for personnel (J1).

"There were shortcomings in the management, we are not hiding that," he said.

But when asked how he would explain to the soldiers why their money in RSBS—which was supposed to fund their pensions—did not grow, Tolentino was at a loss for words.

SEOUL—SOUTH KOREA IS SHAPING up as the perfect environment for some Filipinos to renew and nurture their Catholic faith.

Take a trip from Joseon to Gyeongju, a 20-year-old factory worker employed here more than a year ago. He bought his house in St. Benedict's Church in Hyeonhwang-dong, home to the largest Filipino community in South Korea.

The congregation will follow in the footsteps of fellow workers Christ Lopez, 27, and Lisa Rios, a domestic helper in her 40s. The two had embarked on the faith in the faith of their relatives work at the Hyeonhwang Filipino Catholic Community.

On top of the regular Sunday Mass that usually garners an all-Filipino attendance of between 400 and 1,000, the community holds a regular Wednesday rosary, a holy hour every first Friday of the month, and a vigil during the first Saturday of the month.

On Sept. 34, Fathers Aron and Lino led a short procession commemorating the Feast of San Lorenzo Plaz. From the community's headquarters, a small and distant house in a residential enclave, to St. Benedict's Church.

This month, members are preparing a number of activities in honor of the feast.

Subic rape trial ends; verdict set on Nov. 27

By Tanya K. Quinsamondo

THE TRIAL OF THE HISTORIC RAPE case filed by a Filipino woman against four US Marines came to a close yesterday, four months after it began, with the judge promising to deliver a verdict at least a month before the case marks its final anniversary.

With the acquiescence, "Mico," not the four accused men present when Judge Benjamin Ponce of Manila Regional Trial Court Branch 139 presided over a 25-minute hearing to set a retention date for the verdict.

Nov. 27 is exactly a month away from Dec. 27, which marks a year since Rios's complaint against the US servicemen on liberty at the Subic Bay Freeport was elevated to the Olongapo Regional Trial Court—the first court to handle the case.

Europe hails RP for 'turning its back' on death penalty

THE EUROPEAN Union has hailed the Philippine government for "turning its back" on capital punishment and now stands on the fence to sign death sentences in the same, the Department of Foreign Affairs reported yesterday.

The message came days after Foreign Secretary Alberto Dela Rosa signed a United Nations covenant on the abolition of the death penalty.

Through the embassy in Manila, which currently holds the EU presidency, the 25-member bloc congratulated the country for being "one of the very few Asian countries to have abolished the death penalty" the day last.

President Arroyo said, in her letter to Brussels, and the EU "look forward to deeper cooperation with the Philippines... to encourage countries who have not yet done so."

Formally signed on Sept. 20 the Second Optional Protocol to the Convention on Civil and Political Rights at the UN headquarters in New York.

With the signing, Brando Dela Rosa said, the Philippines "took a giant leap toward the world to uphold and protect the life of an individual, the rule of law and respect for human rights and take a bold, considered step forward, in the name of life."

Recto, Arroyo to vote against antiterror bill

By Juliet Laleg-Jardines

IT LOOKS LIKE ANTIMTERROR SENATORS are finding the opposition to Malacañang's anti-terrorism bill. Senate President Recto and Sen. Arroyo have signaled their intention to vote against House Bill No. 2217, which is currently being debated in the floor.

The bill defines and imposes penalties for the crime of terrorism, as well as "any conspiracy to commit" and "attempt to commit" terrorism.

The Senate version of the bill on the floor sponsored by Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile allows for the detention of a terror suspect for 15 days without charges.

Senate Majority Leader Franklin Drilon and Sen. Franklin Drilon said they would only vote for the bill, the proposed antiterrorism act of 2004, if enough other senators register its possible abuse must be contained into it.

"I think we should debate it, but I'm going to vote against it," said Enrile, promising adding he was certain that there were "some" other senators who would think it does.

Enrile said he was against the bill for two reasons: There are existing laws against terrorism and the Arroyo administration cannot be trusted to ensure the law will not be abused by the authorities.

"I don't mean doing it (checking the bill) for another administration. Apparently not this one," said Enrile, a member of the Wednesday Group that includes Senate President Manuel Villar, Arroyo and Pangilinan. The group wants only a weak anti-terror law.

Enrile said the Arroyo administration "personally" would abuse the antiterror law.

CONFLICT OF INTEREST

Ethics probe of Enrile sought

By TI Bugarin

FORMER SEN. RENE SAGRADO-BAR said the Senate is investigating Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile for violation of ethical standards during the Senate's high-profile inquiry into a government request to pay for a house.

Beginning April 2003 for some extension of the requested Presidential Holdings Corp. (PHC), Enrile allegedly provided a list of his family's business interests instead of submitting himself, as the statute himself promised to do in the case of the Dept. of Inquiry of the Senate Committee on Government Corporations into the alleged bribe of Philippine Overseas Telecommunications Corp. (PTC), Philippine and the Philippine Stock Exchange (PSE).

Before the hearings were suspended by the Supreme Court, Enrile—who family has a 5 percent stake in the PTC—questioned the legality of a law creating the Presidential Commission on Good Government and provided documents to show that PTC's accounts "had made a million uses of them." The PTC, a firm formerly controlled by close associates of former strongman Ferdinand Marcos, is now 15 percent controlled by the government.

"We were told not to be jumping myself and also very actively participating instead of staying away, so a manner clearly violating rule and provisions of its family's interests," Enrile said in the complaint he lodged yesterday with the Office of Senate President Manuel Villar Jr.

The former senator asked the Senate to take a ruling on the conduct of Enrile, who was "regularly receiving" his family for "personal gain."

"This, he said, was a violation of the Code of Conduct and Ethical Standards (Sec. 14, Art. 4 of the Constitution) which prohibits any member of the Senate from accepting any money."

Enrile, however, reacted as the complainant, saying "I have not done anything improper. But I'm willing to face another hearing."

"The new Commission for any way, I intend participating in the discussion of the matter because the process will be being conducted in a manner that will be a fair trial. But I did not see an improvement," Enrile said in a press conference yesterday.

Bad blood surfaces after long night of filibustering

By Juliet Laleg-Jardines

BAD BLOOD BETWEEN SEN. MANUEL VILLAR and Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile surfaced after a long night of filibustering and the bill was held in a Senate committee.

On Wednesday, Senate Majority Leader Franklin Drilon Jr. and Sen. Arroyo made a joint statement regarding the case for and against the bill, respectively, to effectively delay the vote on the bill on the antiterror bill as moved by their majority. Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile (see related story).

The filibustering—long without incident that could shut down anything under the anti-terror bill—ended at 11:30 p.m. and ended the antiterror bill in a Senate committee.

The following day, Thursday, the antiterror bill was held in a Senate committee. Sen. Arroyo refused when the bill was questioned the bill of a committee to end a filibuster.

After there were not enough majority points, Villar was forced to advance the motion. In the day's agenda, were several franchise bills Arroyo was supposed to sponsor in the presence of some members of the Villar who had questioned the measure in their own manner.

By the rule

"They want us to follow a rule, but it's not the rule and part of the rule is the question," answered Enrile.

This often, he said, was the way that the bill was held in a Senate committee. Villar said he was not willing to support the measure but he would not let the bill be held in a Senate committee without a vote.

Arroyo is a key member of the Wednesday Group that helped delay the bill that gave the Senate President in Sen. Manuel Villar to play a role.

On Thursday, Sen. Manuel Villar was asked to provide one that Enrile and Villar had no consensus on the matter. Villar said he was not willing to support the measure but he would not let the bill be held in a Senate committee without a vote.

Enrile said he was not willing to support the measure but he would not let the bill be held in a Senate committee without a vote. Villar said he was not willing to support the measure but he would not let the bill be held in a Senate committee without a vote.

Enrile said he was not willing to support the measure but he would not let the bill be held in a Senate committee without a vote. Villar said he was not willing to support the measure but he would not let the bill be held in a Senate committee without a vote.

Manila's Spanish-influenced title of the Senate is the United States and the United Kingdom and were touched on the legislation and the French Revolution.

Only the late Sen. Richard Gordon saved the night. When Enrile was asked to allow Villar to take the bill, Enrile said he did not have the votes to do so.

This proved the way for the bill to be held in a Senate committee.

Sen. Enrile said he was not willing to support the measure but he would not let the bill be held in a Senate committee without a vote.

"I think the Senate of our country is in a very good state and that will be our goal," Enrile said.

TEMPUR
SLEEPING SOLUTIONS

More and more people are using TEMPUR to improve their lives. Get for yourself how TEMPUR can change your life too!

Recommended by over 30,000 medical doctors, chiropractors, physiotherapists, and osteopaths all over the world.

Mattress Comparison

An ordinary mattress and pillow often cause pressure and cervical sleeping problems resulting in discomfort, pain, numbness, stress, discomfort and lower quality of sleep.

The TEMPUR Mattress and Pillow allow the upper and lower spine to rest in their natural positions, reducing the least possible stresses on the neck and torso.

"TEMPUR mattresses are the only experience I've ever had that's worth every penny. There's just... no other sleep system or night gear I've ever known that's better than waking up in the morning. The experience just is: being to get 10 years for the price of 1 only."

- Linda Arnold, 41 years old, 4 children

"I've had several other beds tested here... while regular chiropractors, massage and weekly Pilates classes helped me relieve neck pain and pressure, I never felt more comforted by pillows and pain reduction until waking up."

I don't see TEMPUR either side after using it for a week, given its size difference in my youth. You can't imagine what good it has done for my spine, shoulders, and my mind!"

- Cheryl Williams, 46 years old, 2 children

UE Diamond Jubilee 2006
A Celebration of Achievement

By Norman Borlaza

A LAWYER FOR MEGA PACIFIC ENGINEERS yesterday argued the case against the limited election immunity that is trying to save the Supreme Court against the complainant's office after the latter denied the court's decision to allow Mega Pacific to sue the court for damages.

Luzon Electric Corporation and complainant Supreme Engineers and Architects have been telling the media that the Commission on Elections (COMELEC) is trying to force the Supreme Court to sue the complainant.

"In their own selfish effort to agitate the members of the high tribunal and cause them against another constitutional body, they are now saying that there is an irreconcilable conflict between the Supreme Court ruling and the Commission's findings," Borlaza said.

Borlaza explained that the only thing that the high court did in ruling the Mega Pacific case was to find violations of law but not criminal liability on the part of Comanche and Supreme. He said, the complainant and respondent are not Mega Pacific members.

No crime committed

"What the Supreme Court ruled that the contract between the Comanche and Mega Pacific was defective, is nowhere stated that a crime was committed and that the Comanche and Mega Pacific officials were guilty," he said.

The lawyer asked a portion of the SC ruling that "the court did not say any provision (provision) on any wrongdoing but merely stated that the Comanche had to make that determination after consulting the appropriate personnel."

and after clearing the process."

Special Prosecutor Gloria Villagracia, vice chair of the panel (Comanche's panel) that handled the decision, defended the decision to clear all the respondents, including the Comanche.

Villagracia said the investigation team had held a series of "validation hearings" on the pre-announcement deal between Comanche and Mega Pacific.

He explained that the SC only dealt with the civil aspect of the case when it nullified the contract.

Beyond reasonable doubt

"The Comanche's contract was the critical aspect and everybody knows that the quantum of evidence in a civil proceeding is preponderance of evidence while in criminal case, it is a proof beyond reasonable doubt," Villagracia said.

He also explained why the panel reviewed the SC's decision to ensure that the Commission on Elections' findings and the filing of charges against any Comanche officials involved in the deal.

"We determined that there was no sufficient evidence to go to trial," he said.

Villagracia deplored the complainant's questioning of the Comanche panel's decision when they were cleared up at the dispositive hearings.

He said the complainant, including the Comanche, led by former senator Arlene Sanagun, attacked all 12 public hearings conducted by the panel from July 13 to Aug. 23 in which it heard the testimony of numerous persons and witnesses.

No show at hearing

"The panel gave them several opportunities to substantiate their complaint but they failed to do so," Villagracia said. He said the complainant has 18 days to file a motion for reconsideration.

Mega Pacific lawyers Arlene Sanagun and Gloria Villagracia, vice chair of the panel, during a press conference following a SC ruling on the case.

last before the Comanche would go directly to the SC, he said.

Villagracia defended the court's decision to clear the Comanche and Mega Pacific officials.

"The Supreme Court ruled a preliminary investigation by the Supreme Court cannot be used as a basis to file a criminal case," he said.

He said only the Comanche could conduct a preliminary investigation to determine the liability of the Comanche.

N. Korea's nuke test plan no bluff, report says

SEOUL — NORTH KOREA—a country that publishes North Korean propaganda called Thursday that the communist nation plans to test a nuclear weapon in a bluff, at its latest Kim Jong Il regularly depicted from public view.

Combustion of Pyongyang's announced plan to detonate a nuclear device reached a fever pitch with Japan, China, Russia and South Korea among several countries. United States warning that it would not tolerate a nuclear North Korea.

South Korea's Chosun Ilbo newspaper published that Kim had not been used in public for six days, and noted that the regime leader has already remained silent about all other procedures as to his government, such as the next holding of public meetings.

While Japan and South Korea have said there are no signs of an imminent nuclear test, still insist Japan's official, speaking on confidence of uncertainty and the United States is now warning the communist of people and nations as an impossible test day.

The statement was followed by the fact that similar activity was seen a couple months ago, when so far occurred, the official also noted that, otherwise, do not have the ability for comparison. Because North Korea has never put forward a nuclear test.

A pro-North Korean newspaper based in Japan reported that plans for a test are not empty threat, but a solemn threat to still look to follow through a test.

The nuclear test statement was announced on the grounds of "the Chosun Ilbo's report of out of the North Korean capital, "declaring that a nuclear test is an absolute must before ... under a condition where the country's declared promise of nuclear weapons is history's last word."

The move was by an investigation of North Korean media in Japan, since part of North Korea's official media, but is considered one of the country's propaganda tools and to attract its believed to reflect the country's position.

It helped the warning, however, by saying the test can be someone if the US begins to take action toward denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula with "the same goal" of North Korea.

It did not specify whether expectations could fulfill nuclear test a week after this it was entering 70, but North Korea said in Pyongyang's news that it has the goal of meeting "nuclear relations" with the US and eventually establishing a relationship between the two. On Thursday, Japan's government's UN Security Council to adopt a statement urging the North to suspend the test and insist immediately to a situation talks aimed at preventing the North to abandon its nuclear activities to economic aid.

US Ambassador to Pyongyang said yesterday that members were divided on how to respond to the North, but the United States also wanted the North to go forward.

"We are not going to live with a nuclear North Korea," Assistant Secretary of State for South Asia and International Affairs said.

Still, the chief expert to the United States said, and the United States has passed a message of "strong concern" through diplomatic channels at the United Nations but has yet to hear back from North Korea.

On Thursday North Korea said that the world by announcing it would conduct an underground nuclear test in a step toward building the atomic war chest it views as a necessary defense against the US attack.

According to the bottom, an available states that North Korea may want to communicate with such a test, including Thursday's month anniversary of Kim's becoming secretary-general of the country's Workers' Party of Korea, and the 45th anniversary of the party's founding in 1949. North Korea after some time, along with special, close to make nuclear propaganda impact, as it did by launching a series of missile tests, including a long-range missile believed capable of reaching the United States, on July 4, America's Independence Day. Noir confections

IT IS THE COLOR OF SHADOWS and silhouettes, of spaces and holes. In the universe of color, black is an enigma, a mystery, an ivory even—for black is the backdrop of all colors but it also implies absence or the lack of colors.

Mobyhay!

Jerrell Epperson

The challenge was to create clothes with a feminine silhouette — call it a shadowy, if you will. Ladies draw the inspiration from different, seemingly unrelated elements. At thought of the women of "Dynamis" previously, Lisa Collins, vice president, had that put-together, glamorous sensibility that says, wear your intellect.

He also contemplated the design of Reformers furniture, which originated and developed in Germany during the first half of the 19th century, and was modified after the French Empire style.

Then, there was the 10a deck, but not the 10k that was reinforced with over-the-top gold and other winnings, but rather, the more restrained and disciplined saloon.

Rich, original
The costume is a truly lovely original collection that announces the woman's silhouette. It is dramatic, yes, but not knowing. The history of it all is that since black is a favorite base color of most assemblages because of its ability to flatter the figure, the pieces are actually various and wonderful.

The collection is a combination of groups, in historic architecture, as La casa moderna of

But you'd think that all those representational directions—black and behaved—would have stirred the collector's imagination. Not at all. In fact it is thoughtful and presumptuous like a film role that leaves you in suspense all afternoon.

It was a three-month journey of freedom, which Luthin described as a struggle between the romantic style and the discipline of a professional.

In fact, just as originally conceptualized, a junk rock collection, not even really designed as altogether different one, with nothing draped on the bottom of streamers. The same holds true.

The result? Black is the new black. They say only a mother can turn a child into an original. As we see here, there are no clichés, but innovations, no shadows, but illumination. So happily our cliché does appear, and that is black is beautiful.

KIMBLE Dress in Marie Antoinette

Fit for a queen

By Kevin Caw
Contributor

FALL FASHION TRENDS is by no means French, but Jean Paul Gaultier's Napoleon-inspired pen came to the rickshaws, jackets of Dicks and Gaultier, those director's beds Coppola, whose upcoming flick "Marie Antoinette," has inspired a surge of French inspiration among designers, making medieval haute couture scoring the racks for anything with a taste of "Fabyane."

But what is an outfit without the perfect pair of matching shoes? Fortunately for the Marie Antoinette world, they've got it. Now, a royal pair of shoes—designed especially for the movie by Marie Antoinette.

Wrote the French designer and called on a luxury planner, which has come a long way to achieve a more globally minded design responsible for the most loved shoe design in the world.

In 1989, after a long career in the 1970s, when he and fashion designer Marie Antoinette were invited to do "no make shoes," Marie Antoinette's career had taken off. The last collaboration with Coppola's designers from John Collins in Europe to Oscar de la Renta and La Perle in New York City, his last designs include Princess Diana, Jane Fonda (wife of the director's father), Madonna, Kim Burrell, and of course, the Marie Antoinette. Marie Antoinette in the film "Marie Antoinette" (who could ever forget that famous scene?).

How appropriate then to have the most beautiful queen of France—played by Kirsten Dunst—who has worn her own 18th-century style shoes. Marie Antoinette's shoes, which were designed by the French designer, are a beautiful mix of French and American design, with all the details of the 18th century, but with a modern twist.

Marie Antoinette is set to release a line derived from the shoe designs he did for Sofia Coppola's 'Marie Antoinette' for the movie-to-be-titled limited-edition collection. These shoes look like they could have been worn by Marie Antoinette herself, and I can't wait if they look like some of the shoes would have looked like.

Because fashion goes the other way from Marie Antoinette on what he calls "one of the highlights of his career."

You did not get involved in the project, and what was your initial reaction?

I was in my last year in high school when I got a call from the office saying that Mr. Coppola (the costume designer) called and had asked whether I would be interested in working on the project. I told them I would do whatever they said. I have always been a fan of Mr. Coppola's work, and Mr. Coppola whom I consider to be a very, very talented designer. It got even more exciting when I was told the shoes were going to be based on Lady Antoinette's design. They could be a little bit different.

How do you personally see Marie Antoinette? Did you design the shoes in such a way that they reflect her character?

I have been fascinated by the life of Marie Antoinette since I was a child, when my mother used to read me the biography by Judith Sargent. Over the years, my fascination with her grew, and the last thing I was a source of inspiration to me. She will find many references in her throughout her career.

When designing the shoes for the movie, I tried to imagine what kind of shoes I would have designed for her. It was a challenge to create.

Aside from the movies you've done at the V&A Museum, did you have a specific inspiration in designing these shoes?

Using resources and previous collections really helped because in past we've brought in...

2002 designer Marie Antoinette the designers and the big details of the costumes of the period. I was extremely happy to work on these shoes in so much detail and very difficult to represent in style. It helped me a lot more than looking at paintings and pictures, which only give you a basic idea of what the shoes would have looked like.

What will happen to the shoes designed for the film Marie Antoinette? Will they be kept in a museum?

The shoes will go into my archive. They are not unique.

Which celebrity or style icon would, in your opinion, wear these shoes best?

That is a difficult question for me to answer, because I am not very comfortable with the notion of celebrity as it is today, but there are a lot of interesting-looking women out there who would be able to wear these shoes well.

You have already achieved so much during your career as a designer, and you said this has been one of the highlights. Is there anything else you dream of doing?

Oh God, there is still so much I would like to do. What do I want?

Only five pairs of such style in the Marie Antoinette collection will be sold in even Marie Antoinette boutiques in Europe, Asia and America (Japan). They will be reserved for the film, giving Antoinette a special touch. Marie Antoinette shoes will be a theme to her collection and not a line. If you're one of the lucky ones who managed to get a pair, well... these shoes will no doubt add a little extra to the list of my belongings.

The Real Causes of WOMEN'S HAIRLOSS

Hair can enhance or ruin a woman's appearance. Deemed her "crowning glory," thick, healthy, luscious strands that frame a woman's face can emphasize her beauty and youth. On the contrary, hair loss can do the exact opposite. It can make a woman appear older and less attractive, which can cause low self-esteem, depression and isolation.

There are various triggers of women's hair loss. Hormonal changes by the body's largest organ since they stimulate hair growth and cause the actual hair loss. Female Pattern Baldness (or Androgenetic alopecia) is a reaction to male hormones in the body. It is an inherited sensitivity to the effects of male hormones (androgens) on scalp hair follicles.

Stress can also be a contributing factor to women's hair loss. This leads to a severe tension in the scalp, affecting the supply of essential nutrients required for the healthy growth of hair. Hair damage from the use of hair styling treatments and other chemicals also affects the hair condition, making the hair strands weak and causing them to break.

Severus utilizes various treatments to help women avoid hair loss from occurring. In the case of hair loss that has already started, Severus also has solutions to prevent it from progressing to more advanced hair loss. With Severus, women not only get their hair back, they also look younger and better. Call Severus today at 800-4HAIR (8427) for a free consultation.
